

Guest of honor André Télió

Mr. André Télió

While the name TÉLIO is little known to the general public, it has a very different resonance in the textile industry in which the company has been present since 1952. It is a Montreal-based leader in the import-export and distribution of textiles throughout the world.

André Télió, President of TÉLIO, emphasizes that it is essential that young people of the new generation should be encouraged to go beyond and even be pushed to innovate. The ability to stand out, to offer an original and quality product will always be an asset, whatever the field of activity, but especially and of course in the field of fashion, all specializations combined.

For a decade, in all the fashion schools of the country, TÉLIO made fashion design students who submitted hundreds of sketches dreaming to see one of their creations parading on a runway. Mr. Télió mentions that Quebec is a formidable nursery of raw talent, waiting only for the opportunity to be realized and he is certain that the Fondation de la mode de Montréal, with its support, will cultivate these talents, which are still unknown, to make them one day recognized names, a guarantee of quality, originality and Quebec savoir-faire.

André Télió is proud to be a partner of the Fondation de la mode de Montréal to encourage the next generation in a field he loves and who has seen him grow with his company.
